Gentlemen:

FCC MAIL ROOM

I am concerned about proposal RM-8626 to prevent one-way transmissions. There is a lot more good done than harm by continuing to allow this. Many announcements including emergency net frequencies, code practice, news of interest to amateurs, etc.

Please consider the above. Thank you.

Sincerely,
John Holliman

RE: RM-8626

A petition to eliminate all one-way transmissions such as code practice and information bulletins on amateur bands below 30 MHz is being considered by FCC.

I am fairly new in this hobby but, I feel this would be an extremely bad thing to happen to all amateurs. There may be tapes and other information available for people to study for licenses but there are also people who need other sources to be able to practice at different levels and they need to be able to turn to the designated locations to get information concerning bands.

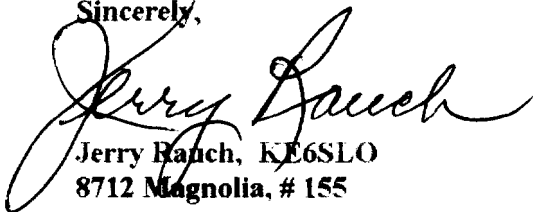

Mr. Maia, should making enough money from his programs BUT now he wants to stop free use of the amateur bands below 30 MHz and appears to want a monopoly -- where people have to purchase his tapes to get training rather than be able to practice and listen where they are allowed to for free.

Eliminating one-way transmissions would only allow ONE individual who must think he needs more money to win against the whole radio amateur organization and this would be a great loss for everyone, including the FCC.

Since when can one person close down a tradition because he wants to sell more tapes, etc.?

Please consider this carefully before making your decision.

Sincerely,

Dear Sir:

I would like your agency to note that I am against RM 8626 to eliminate one-way transmissions. This will prevent many people who just do not have the money to use more expensive methods. Listening to stations such as W1AW is much more interesting and is helping me keep my incentive going to upgrade to the General class license.

Your's truly,

Susan M. Bower

Dear Sir:

I would like your agency to note that I am against RM 8626 to eliminate one-way transmissions. Without transmissions from W1AW I would not have passed my 13 WPM code test. I was not able to afford a computer in those days and suspect that many people are in the same situation today. Things such as code tapes also do not give me incentive to study.

Your consideration would be appreciated.

Sincerely,

Dale Bower

I am opposed to the petition by Fred Maia, W5YI, that would prohibit one-way information bulletins and code practice transmissions in the amateur bands below 30 MHz.

For decades, the Hiram Percy Maxim Memorial Station, W1AW, has been supplying free services to the Amateur Radio community. I have used these services myself, and want to be able to continue to do so. The FCC itself relies on these services to disseminate information about communications emergencies. Thousands of amateurs regularly sharpen their skills by copying ARRL bulletins and code practice sent by W1AW.

The public interest would not be served by further consideration of this petition. I request that the petition be denied.

Sincerely,

Keith Bondler
